

WAREHOUSE HOME

ISSUE 7

ESSENTIAL READING FOR WAREHOUSE LIVING

ICONIC ARCHITECTURE

We celebrate converted silos and find a cotton mill with a fascinating history

PAGES. 4 - 11

INTERIORS TRENDS

Take inspiration from Japan and Scandinavia. Try raw timber and original parquet designs

PAGES. 12 - 19

HOME STYLING

Our design team creates a dream apartment contrasting colour, contemporary and vintage

PAGES. 20 - 33

URBAN LIVING

Copenhagen's most unusual and stylish accommodation. Swedish homes with flair

PAGES. 34 - 37

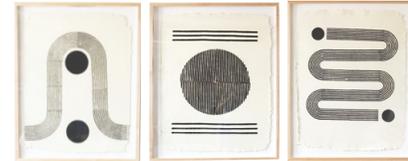

INTERIORS TRENDS

JAPANESE INFLUENCES

MAKING WAVES

Hokusai worked during the Industrial Revolution and the artist's favoured palettes suit industrial schemes. Hokusai: beyond The Great Wave is edited by Timothy Clark. £35, thamesandhudson.com

Framed woodblock prints, $600 each, blockshoptextiles.com

KINTSUGI

The art of repairing broken pottery with lacquer dusted or mixed with gold, silver, or platinum.

From top left: Tsukroi by Kazuyo Komoda for Maruyoshi Kosaka, €110, handsongdesign.it; Hamon (Ripple), £200, Naku To (Weeping Tower), £570, robandersonmetal.co.uk; Nightsky Kintsugi Vessel, £137, reikokaneko.co.uk; Purchase a New Kintsugi Repair Kit by Humade and rather than throwing broken crockery away, create something beautiful to keep - like this. £25, designmuseumshop.com

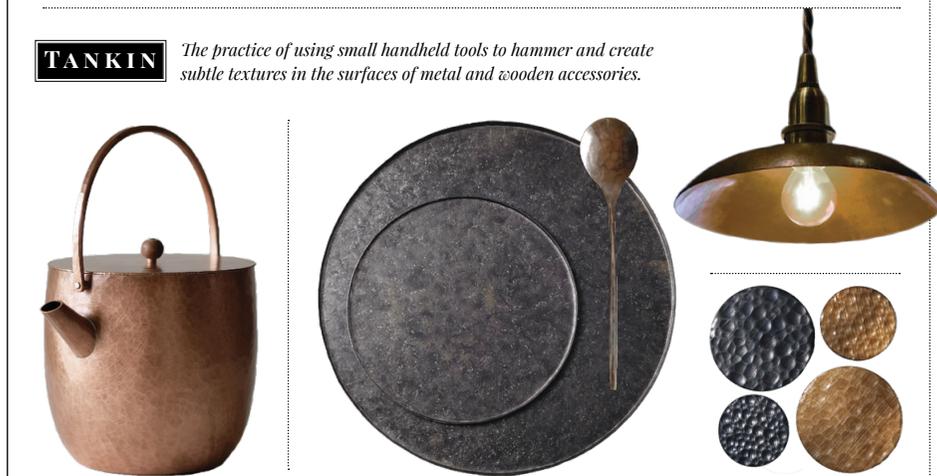

SHOU SUGI BAN

An ancient technique that preserves wood by charring it black with fire.

TANKIN

The practice of using small handheld tools to hammer and create subtle textures in the surfaces of metal and wooden accessories.

From left: A beautiful teapot such as this will transform drinking a simple cup of tea into an occasion. Copper kettle by Yumi Nakamura, ¥50,000; Create a stunning table setting with the Round L platter, ¥31,000, Plate S, ¥6,500, Spoon, ¥3,800, all by Kanehan; Brass lamp by Kanehan, ¥14,000. All from analoguelife.com. Kyoto wooden hooks in natural or black are small yet striking, from €32, bolia.com

Clockwise, from top left: Pompeii scorched timber and brass side table, £199, swooneditions.com; The Burnt Wood wallpaper by Piet Hein Eek will make a particularly dramatic backdrop. 48.7cm x 10m, £175, roseandgrey.co.uk; Smoke Thonet chair, price upon request, maartenbaas.com; Scorched Shake cabinet by Sebastian Cox, £4,600, thenewcraftsmen.com; This imposing black bed in recycled teak from Muubs, €1,883, is well-suited to a warehouse home or modern rustic residence. It's dressed here with an Indigo duvet cover, €133, and teamed with a large black bamboo fishtrap hanging pendant, €74. All muubs.com

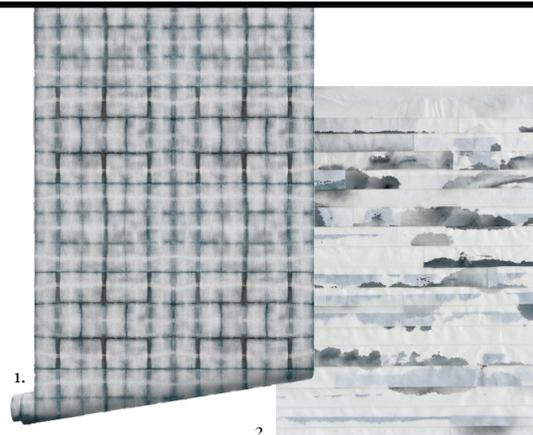

Time & Ceremony

Much of Japanese design is steeped in tradition, fusing local materials and ancient craftsmanship. We take careful note of the finest highlights.

ZEN LIFESTYLE

Paper Palettes

Washi is traditional Japanese paper, the word literally combining 'wa' meaning 'Japanese' and 'shi' meaning 'paper'. It is made from the fibre of local Japanese trees which are processed by hand and is therefore generally more robust than ordinary paper because it incorporates wood pulp. The long, intricate process is conducted in winter as pure and cold running water is essential to inhibiting bacteria and the decomposition of the fibres. The subtle textures and tones of this tougher paper, used in traditional Japanese crafts like origami, also make it a popular choice for modern homes.

1. Earth Grey Brick wallpaper, £97 per roll, miltonandking.com
2. Fu'kei no hohaba handmade washi paper, $250, mayakonakamura.jp

3. Renowned Dutch designer Piet Boon travels the world drawing inspiration from other cultures. Washi wallpaper in green (left) and Petrol (right) by Piet Boon. 48.7cm x 10m, $299 each, nxl.com

Under the wave off Kanagawa (The Great Wave) from Thirty-six views of Mt. Fuji. Colour woodblock. 1831. Acquisition supported by the Art Fund. © The Trustees of the British Museum; Maarten Baas photography by Maarten van Houtten